TEARS SHED BY THOUSANDS AS THE BODY OF 'BIG TIM' IS CARRIED TO THE GRAVE

U. S. Senators Join the Plain People in Paying Him Last Tribute.

MOURNERS COME EARLY.

With Tears and Prayers They Pass the Coffin Buried in Flowers.

Timothy D. Sullivan—"Big Tim"—in the hearts of his people—was buried today.

At the last rites in old St. Patrick's, on Mott street, on the Bowery and on the crooked streets approaching the Cathedral the hearts of thousands who had been bound to the dead leader by personal ties of devotion were wrung with grief. From United States Senators to the street sweepers the common bond of sorrow passed. Bowery derelicts and men who control the political history of the city were united for a little while in a single thought.

It was as if the narrow escape the "Big Fellow" had from going to the same Potter's field from which he had saved so many names was in his lifetime stirred the hearts of those who revered him in death to a height of pity almost hysterical. They mourned the tragedy of the leader's passing, but the tears of thousands massed along the Bowery and in front of old St. Patrick's gave hearty thanks that he had not gone to an unnamed grave.

After lying since Saturday night in the darkened rooms of the Timothy D. Sullivan Association, No. 207 Bowery, the body was removed to the waiting hearse at 10:45 o'clock. Members of the association carried the heavy casket, draped with flowers, down the stairs, over which many thousands of feet had passed in devotion, and at the instant the black shape on their shoulders appeared framed in the doorway a great sigh went up from the crowd of people stretching from curb to curb.

There was a concerted movement of doffing hats over the whole sea of heads and far down and up the street by those on the edges of the tops of cars blocked by the throng. There was no other movement anywhere.

When the casket had been slipped into the hearse and the doors were closed upon it a platoon of twenty mounted police moved slowly up to the intersection of Bleeker street, thence to Mott street and so to the door of the cathedral. Directly behind the hearse rode Patrick Sullivan, the brother of the dead Congressman, and his wife; then Larry Mulgan and his wife, and Police Lieutenant Michael Summers, a brother-in-law of Sullivan. President Joe Dunn of the Timothy D. Sullivan Association and the

PITCHER COMBS MAY NOT PLAY IN SERIES.

"Jack" Combs, star pitcher of the Athletic Baseball Club, and the hero of two world's series, is in the University Hospital of Philadelphia. Muscles of the giant pitcher's back, weakened by a recent attack of typhoid fever, physicians say, were unable to stand the strain put upon them in his attempt to work into condition, and it is said he may be placed in a plaster cast for several weeks. Physicians at the hospital say that in rare instances following a severe attack of typhoid fever muscles of the body have been known to stretch. An X-ray photograph of the injured muscles will be taken today, and a final decision made as to the need for the cast.

THOUSANDS FIGHT, WOMEN FAINT, IN CRUSH ON BRIDGE

Cable Burned Out and Street Car Lines Are Tied Up For Hours.

50,000 PERSONS LATE.

Only Locals and Elevated Trains Cross Over the Williamsburg Structure.

Throughout the rush hour this morning crowds of men and women, many of them young factory girls, fought and struggled to board the few cars which passed over Williamsburg Bridge after 1:30 o'clock. There were fist fights between men. Women and girls were knocked down. Their hats were ruined and their dresses torn. At times as many as 10,000 persons crowded the Williamsburg Plaza, filling it as full as the Polo Grounds grandstand in a world's series game.

A cable which burned out in Heister street cut off all power by which the cars of the New York Railway, a subsidiary of the Interborough and the various Third Avenue lines, are propelled across the bridge. Among the lines thus tied up were the Post-Office line, the Dearbrosen street, the Eleventh and Madison street, the Eleventh and Madison street, the Fourteenth and Twenty-third street line and the Fourth Avenue and Madison Avenue line.

As the crowds began to fill the Plaza the reserves in charge of Secret William Schilling were called from the Bedford Avenue station. They found thousands of men, women and girls struggling to board the B. R. T. cars, which were still running, and the bridge local cars, which leave a wooden inclosure entered by two turnstiles.

HUNDREDS FIGHT TO BOARD THE BRIDGE LOCALS.

As the bridge local cars came in hundreds of persons rushed the inclosure entering over the tracks, which the cars leave, thus avoiding the turnstiles. Men fought with one another for preference at the entrance and women and girls were thrown down and had their clothing torn from their bodies. Many were hysterical and shrieked when they found themselves in a crush through which they could not force their way and out of which they could not fight a passage.

Thousands went to the Marcy Avenue station of the elevated and tried to board the elevated trains for Manhattan. Police were sent there and cleared the platforms and steps, letting would-be passengers ascend only one at a time and preventing the overcrowding of the platforms.

At one time the tie-up was lifted for a moment and a few cars crossed the bridge, but presently the cable, which had been repaired, burned out again, and again only the B. R. T. and bridge local cars ran. The railroad men on the scene professed to know nothing about the trouble and refused to predict how long the tie-up would last. As a result crowds hung about the Plaza expecting each instant that the cars would run and between 40,000 and 50,000 persons were late to business in consequence.

The blockade had not been lifted when the rush hour passed, but at length the bridge plaza was cleared as the few cars running finally handled the tremendous crowds.

MITCHEL NOT TO RESIGN.

Dentes Report That He Is to Quit Collectors.

John Parroy Mitchell said this afternoon concerning a report that he would resign as collector of customs in order to be free in the Mayratty campaign: "The report is absolutely without foundation. I have no intention of resigning excepting in event of my election as Mayor. The law does not require me to resign from this Federal post before accepting a municipal nomination."

MITCHEL SHUNS POLITICS UNTIL GAYNOR IS BURIED

McCall Joins in Movement to Sidetrack Partisan Conferences for a Week.

PRIMARIES TO-MORROW.

Fusion Candidate Attends Luncheon of Republicans and Makes Brief Speech.

As far as possible, all partisan meetings and conferences, all discussions of his successor should cease until Mayor Gaynor has been laid to rest with the affectionate sympathy of this community.—

John Parroy Mitchell.

A halt in political activities, through respect for the late Mayor Gaynor, was called this afternoon by John Parroy

Mitchell, Fusion candidate for Mayor.

He made a brief address to the Republican district leaders assembled at a luncheon in his honor at the Republican Club, in West Forty-third street, and until after the Mayor's funeral there will be a lull in the municipal campaign.

Tammany coincides with the same respectful attitude. Edward McCall, its candidate for Mayor, said:

"I do not care to discuss politics at this time. I think matters should be allowed to rest as they are until after Mayor Gaynor is buried."

Barring the official primaries—scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and evening, at which enrolled party voters will go through the merely perfunctory act of confirming the designated candidates already made for them by leaders—there will be no political events of importance until next week.

DISTRICT LEADERS.
